

SUMMARY OF LEGAL INFORMATION NORMALLY USED IN A WEBSITE AND APP:

If you run a Website / Application, there are certain legal documents, policies, and information you will need to include for your users to stipulate their rights and liabilities. The following are the more commonly used legal documents and policies:

Documents	Descriptions
Terms and Conditions of Service; User / Subscriber Agreement	Standard terms and conditions of service for Website or APP. Alternately this can also be drafted as a User/ Subscriber Agreement. Deemed Acceptance by using the service.
Cookie Policy
Privacy Policy	Privacy Policy is a must if you obtain Personal Data or Personally-Identifying Information from users. If you have European users, GDPR wordings must be included.
Refund Policy	A refund Policy is required where you take fees from the users in return for products and services. Certain jurisdictions require a refund policy where the products / services are paid for in advance.

Photo and Video Policy	Photo and Video Policy is required where you allow users to upload their own photos and videos onto your Website / App. You will want to ensure that you are not liable for any copyright infringement or inappropriate content.
Third Party Legal Notices	If you are also using third party software / materials / contents / App, you should also include notification of their license terms by including links to them.
Claims of Copyright Infringement	If you allow users to upload users generated content, you should allow copyright holders to inform you separately on claims of copyright infringement to remove them (rather than having them suing you).
Copyright Wording	Standard wording to assert copyright on the website and app (codes and contents). Copyright automatically arises upon creation and it is not necessary to register.

Disclaimers	Disclaimers disclaim potential liabilities arising from specific points (in particular liability that fall outside your Terms & Conditions agreement).

Claims of Copyright Infringement

The Bladder Breakthrough™ respects the intellectual property rights of others, and we ask that everyone using our internet sites and services do the same. Anyone who believes that their work has been reproduced in one of our internet sites or services in a way that constitutes copyright infringement may notify The Bladder Breakthrough™ via info@bladderbreakthrough.com.

The Bladder Breakthrough™ will only remove content based on a complete copyright infringement Notice. Your complete Notice must include all of the following information:

- A detailed description of the copyrighted content that you believe is being infringed;
- The URL where the allegedly infringing content is located and a description of the content;
- Your full legal name, physical address, telephone number, and email address;
- The following statement: "I have a good faith belief that the use of the copyrighted material I am complaining of is not authorized by the copyright owner, its agent, or the law";
- The following statement: "The information in this notice is accurate and, under penalty of perjury I am the owner, or authorized to act on behalf of the owner, of the copyright or of an exclusive right that is allegedly infringed"; and
- The electronic or physical signature of the copyright owner or authorized agent.

Upon review of a complete Notice, The Bladder Breakthrough™ will investigate before removing the allegedly infringing content. The Bladder Breakthrough™ will further make a good-faith attempt to contact the user who stored or transmitted the allegedly infringing content to provide such user the opportunity for a response before the removal of their content.
